

Open Access and Copyright Terms

Present-day scientific publishing operates with various legal and financial models. JCOM is an open access journal fully funded and published by Sissa Medialab s.r.l. Contributions are distributed under the creative commons license CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/>). This licence permits any use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided

1. the original author(s) and source are credited;
2. no use is made for commercial purposes;
3. any remix, transformation or extension cannot be distributed.

Copyright is retained by the authors by default.

Notwithstanding the aforementioned and in any case the submission of a contribution to JCOM implies that:

- the work described has not been published before (except in form of non-peer-reviewed material such as “preprints”, theses, lectures, reports, etc. publicly posted on institutional or community repositories such as university and arXiv, and not subject to any copyright protection); that it is not under consideration for publication, and will not be published, in any other refereed publication; that its publication has been approved by all co-authors, if any, as well as — tacitly or explicitly — by the responsible authorities at the institution where the work was carried out.
- the author warrants that his/her contribution is original and that he/she has full power to make this grant. The author, by accepting the terms and conditions, signs for and accepts responsibility for releasing this material on behalf of any and all co-authors.